

A Message from the Matthew 25 Coordinators:

If you are not feeling well, please let us know that you will not be able to provide a casserole. We do not want you making casseroles if you feel under the weather, as always, please be very mindful of your personal hygiene while making the casseroles.

As an extra precaution and in an effort to make sure these casseroles are “germ free” we ask that you deliver them no later than Monday so that they can be good and frozen before being delivered.

Regarding accessing the church for pan retrieval and casserole drop off: The church offices will continue to stay open although they may appear a bit like a ghost town as staff will also be doing some remote work from home. Pans are in the regular cupboard, behind Ainslie Wall’s desk. The freezer will be accessible as well. If it is full, use the white freezer chest.

Drivers: Please let us know if you do not feel comfortable delivering and, as with the cooks, if you feel unwell, please let us know. We do not want you delivering the casseroles if you are feeling badly. Our neighbors are in fragile situations and we want to try and limit their exposure to anything that could inadvertently come from us.
